Explanatory Information about the Written Statement

- I. This section contains prescribed information about the written statement in accordance with section 32(4) of the Renting Homes (Wales) Act 2016 and the Renting Homes (Explanatory Information for Written Statements of Occupation Contracts) (Wales) Regulations 2022.

The written statement of your occupation contract

- II. This is a written statement of your occupation contract. It sets out the rights and responsibilities of you and your landlord. Your occupation contract is made under the Renting Homes (Wales) Act 2016 ("the Act"). The occupation contract is between the contract-holder ("you") and the landlord ("your landlord").
- III. You should read the terms of this written statement carefully to ensure you fully understand them, and that you are content that the terms reflect the modifications or additional terms agreed between you and your landlord. You should keep this written statement safe, as you may need to refer to it in the future.
- IV. Your written statement can be provided electronically if you agree to receive it in an electronic form.
- V. You must be given the written statement of your occupation contract within 14 days of the occupation date (the day on which you are entitled to begin occupying the dwelling). Where your occupation contract has been converted from an existing tenancy or licence prior to the implementation of the Act, you must be given the written statement within six months of the date it converted to an occupation contract.
- VI. If you are not given the written statement within the required time period, for each day it is late, your landlord may be liable to pay you compensation equivalent to a day's rent for each day the written statement is not provided, up to a maximum of two months' rent (unless the landlord's failure to provide a written statement was intentional).

Meaning of words used¹

¹ See also section B of this contract.

- VII. The 'occupation date' of an occupation contract is the day on which you are entitled to begin occupying the dwelling.
- VIII. The 'key matters' in an occupation contract means the following information:
- a. the address of the dwelling;
 - b. the occupation date;
 - c. the amount of rent (or other consideration); and,
 - d. the rental period (i.e. the length of time in respect of which rent must be paid, such as weekly or monthly).
- IX. Your secure contract is periodic, and continues from one rental period to the next (as referred to in the key matters within the written statement).

Terms of your occupation contract: fundamental, supplementary and additional terms

- X. 'Fundamental terms' are provisions of the Act (or of any other enactment that the Welsh Ministers specify are fundamental terms) that are automatically incorporated as terms of your occupation contract. Some of the fundamental provisions cannot be omitted or modified and must reflect the wording in the Act, apart from editorial changes. Other fundamental provisions can be omitted or modified subject to the agreement of you and your landlord, but only if doing so improves your position.
- XI. 'Supplementary terms' are provisions (set out in regulations made by Welsh Ministers) which are also automatically incorporated as terms of the occupation contract, unless:
- a. the supplementary terms are omitted or modified. Supplementary terms can be omitted or modified, subject to the agreement of you and your landlord, either to improve your position or that of your landlord, provided that the omission or modification would not make a supplementary term incompatible with a fundamental term; or
 - b. the occupation contract has been converted from an existing tenancy or licence made prior to the implementation of the Act.
- XII. If any fundamental or supplementary provisions have not been incorporated as terms of the occupation contract, such provisions are identified within schedule F to this contract.
- XIII. 'Additional terms' are agreed by you and your landlord if they are included in your occupation contract. They can cover any matter provided, they do not conflict with a key matter, a fundamental term or a supplementary term.
- XIV. Any additional term, or modification to a supplementary term, that is incorporated in the occupation contract is not binding on you if it is an unfair term under section 62 (requirement for contract terms and notices to be fair) of the Consumer Rights Act 2015.

Features of fundamental, supplementary and additional terms where your occupation contract has been converted from an existing tenancy or licence made prior to the implementation of the Act

- XV. Where the occupation contract has been converted from an existing tenancy or licence made prior to the implementation of the Act, existing terms of the contract which were already agreed by you and your landlord prior to the conversion are additional terms. These terms will continue to have effect except where they are incompatible with a fundamental term provision incorporated as a term of the occupation contract.
- XVI. Supplementary terms that are incompatible with terms of the existing tenancy or licence prior to its conversion to an occupation contract will not be incorporated into the occupation contract.
- XVII. If your occupation contract has been converted from an existing tenancy or licence made prior to the implementation of the Act, once your landlord has given you a written statement of occupation contract:
 - a. certain fundamental terms can be omitted or modified subject to the agreement of you and your landlord, but only if doing so improves your position; and
 - b. supplementary terms can be omitted or modified subject to the agreement of you and your landlord, either to improve your position or that of your landlord, provided that the omission or modification would not make the supplementary term incompatible with a fundamental term.

Your rights and responsibilities

- XVIII. You have important rights relating to how you can use the dwelling, although some of these rights are subject to obtaining your landlord's consent.
- XIX. A succession right may apply to someone who lives in the dwelling with you if you die.
- XX. You can be held responsible for any anti-social behaviour or other prohibited conduct of anyone who lives in or visits the dwelling. Anti-social behaviour or other prohibited conduct can include excessive noise, verbal abuse, physical assault and domestic abuse (including physical, sexual, psychological, emotional or financial abuse).
- XXI. You must not allow the dwelling to become overcrowded by permitting more persons to live in the dwelling than the maximum number allowed. Part 10 of the Housing Act 1985 (overcrowding) provides the basis for determining the maximum number of people to live in the dwelling.
- XXII. You cannot be evicted without a court order, unless you abandon the dwelling.

- XXIII. Before the court can make a possession order, your landlord must demonstrate that the correct procedures have been followed and that at least one of the following is satisfied:
- a. you have broken one or more terms of the contract (which include: failure to pay rent, engaging in or threatening to engage in anti-social behaviour or other prohibited conduct, or failing to take proper care of the dwelling) and it is reasonable to evict you; or
 - b. your landlord needs to move you, and one of the estate management grounds under section 160 of the Act applies, suitable alternative accommodation is, or will be, available when the order takes effect and it is reasonable to evict you.

Issues with the dwelling and disputes

- XXIV. If you have an issue with the dwelling, you should first contact your landlord to try and resolve it, but if this is not successful, then advice agencies (e.g. Citizens Advice Bureau or Shelter Cymru) or independent legal advisors may be able to assist.
- XXV. Disputes regarding the terms of your occupation contract may be determined in the county court.

Further information about occupation contracts

¹⁶ The amount of compensation payable in respect of a particular day is equivalent to the amount of rent payable under the contract in respect of that day. Under this contract, the rent is payable weekly and so the amount payable in respect of a single day is the appropriate proportion of the rent payable in respect of the period in which that day falls.

 - the fundamental provision which the term incorporates would not be incorporated or would be incorporated with modification, but the effect of this would be that the position of the contract-holder is improved. (MF)
- c. A variation of any other fundamental term (other than by or as a result of an enactment) is of no effect if the variation would render the fundamental term incompatible with a fundamental term which incorporates a fundamental provision to which term 10.3a applies. (MF)
- d. A variation of a term of a secure contract is of no effect if it would render any term of the contract incompatible with a fundamental term (unless that fundamental term is also varied in accordance with this term in a way that would avoid the incompatibility). This does not apply to a variation made as a result of an enactment. (MF)

10.4 A supplementary or additional term of a secure contract may be varied (subject to term 10.3):

SCHEDULE A – Estate management grounds for possession

Ground A (building works)

The landlord intends, within a reasonable time of obtaining possession of the dwelling -

- (a) to demolish or reconstruct the building or part of the building comprising the dwelling, or
- (b) to carry out work on that building or on land treated as part of the dwelling, and cannot reasonably do so without obtaining possession of the dwelling.

Ground B (redevelopment schemes)

This ground arises if the dwelling satisfies the first condition or the second condition.

The first condition is that the dwelling is in an area which is the subject of a redevelopment scheme approved in accordance with Part 2 of this Schedule, and the landlord intends within a reasonable time of obtaining possession to dispose of the dwelling in accordance with the scheme.

The second condition is that part of the dwelling is in such an area and the landlord intends within a reasonable time of obtaining possession to dispose of that part in accordance with the scheme, and for that purpose reasonably requires possession of the dwelling.

Ground C (charities)

The landlord is a charity and the contract-holder's continued occupation of the dwelling would conflict with the objects of the charity.

But this ground is not available to the landlord ("L") unless, at the time the contract was made and at all times after that, the person in the position of landlord (whether L or another person) has been a charity.

In this paragraph "charity" has the same meaning as in the Charities Act 2011 (c. 25) (see section 1 of that Act).

Ground D (dwelling suitable for disabled people)

The dwelling has features which are substantially different from those of ordinary dwellings and which are designed to make it suitable for occupation by a physically disabled person who requires accommodation of a kind provided by the dwelling and -

- (a) there is no longer such a person living in the dwelling, and
- (b) the landlord requires the dwelling for occupation by such a person (whether alone or with members of that person's family).

Ground E (housing associations and housing trusts: people difficult to house)

The landlord is a housing association or housing trust which makes dwellings available only for occupation (whether alone or with others) by people who are difficult to house, and -

- (a) either there is no longer such a person living in the dwelling or a local housing authority has offered the contract-holder a right to occupy another dwelling under a secure contract, and
- (b) the landlord requires the dwelling for occupation by such a person (whether alone or with members of that person's family).

A person is difficult to house if that person's circumstances (other than financial circumstances) make it especially difficult for him or her to satisfy his or her need for housing.

Ground F (groups of dwellings for people with special needs)

The dwelling constitutes part of a group of dwellings which it is the practice of the landlord to make available for occupation by persons with special needs and—

- (a) a social service or special facility is provided in close proximity to the group of dwellings in order to assist persons with those special needs,
- (b) there is no longer a person with those special needs living in the dwelling, and
- (c) the landlord requires the dwelling for occupation by a person who has those special needs (whether alone or with members of his or her family).

Ground G (reserve successors)

The contract-holder succeeded to the occupation contract under section 73 as a reserve successor (see sections 76 and 77), and the accommodation comprised in the dwelling is more extensive than is reasonably required by the contract-holder.

Ground H (joint contract-holders)

This ground arises if the first condition and the second condition are met.

The first condition is that a joint contract-holder's rights and obligations under the contract have been ended in accordance with—

- (a) section 111, 130 or 138 (withdrawal), or
- (b) section 225, 227 or 230 (exclusion).

The second condition is that—

- (a) the accommodation comprised in the dwelling is more extensive than is reasonably required by the remaining contract-holder (or contract-holders), or
- (b) where the landlord is a community landlord, the remaining contract-holder does not (or the remaining contract-holders do not) meet the landlord's criteria for the allocation of housing accommodation.

Ground I (other estate management reasons)

This ground arises where it is desirable for some other substantial estate management reason that the landlord should obtain possession of the dwelling.

An estate management reason may, in particular, relate to—

- (a) all or part of the dwelling, or
- (b) any other premises of the landlord to which the dwelling is connected, whether by reason of proximity or the purposes for which they are used, or in any other manner.

- c. sending it to a person in electronic form so long as (i) the person has indicated a willingness to receive the notification or document electronically; (ii) the text is received by the person in legible form; and (iii) the text is capable of being used for subsequent reference.

Where a notification or document is left in any of the places mentioned in 4 above, it is to be treated as having been given at the time at which it was left at that place.

Any notification or document may be given to a body corporate by being given to the secretary or clerk of that body.

SCHEDULE C - Explanatory section - succession¹⁷

The Act deals with succession under sections 73 to 83.

Under the Act, a person is qualified to succeed you as the contract-holder if that person is a priority successor of you as the contract-holder or a reserve successor of the contract-holder, and, is not excluded.

A person is excluded if he or she or they has not reached the age of 18 at the time of your death; and/or, at any time in the period of 12 month ending with your death he or she or they occupied the dwelling or part of it under a sub-occupation contract.

A person is not excluded if he or she or they is priority successor of the contract-holder, or he or she or they is a reserve successor of you, as the contract-holder, who meets the family member condition, and, the sub-contract under which he or she occupied the dwelling or part of it ended before your death.
